Appendix. Census 1922—Total population by religion, sex, district, sub-district and town—urban and rural (Administrative divisions as at date of the census 1931)	594

TABLE I.

AREAS, HOUSES AND POPULATION.

This table shows for each sub-district the number of towns and villages, the number of occupied houses and the total settled population, urban and rural, male and female.

It also shows for each district separately the total of nomads, male and female, the enumeration of whom was conducted on a special method and was not completely synchronous with the general census.

The districts and sub-districts are arranged, in this and other tables, geographically from west to east proceeding from south to north.

The areas of the administrative units shown in this table represent the provisional computations of the Survey Department and do not include the areas of lakes and rivers.

Towns were defined as units within the jurisdiction of a municipal council and included the town of Tel Aviv which is within the jurisdiction of a local council vested with wide municipal powers.

TABLE I

gives similar information for the nomadic population separately.

Settled Population 969,268
 Nomadic Population 66,337
 Gypsies 216

TABLE II (a), (b) & (c).

VARIATION IN POPULATION SINCE 1922.

Table II (a) compares the total population, that is the settled population and the nomadic population taken together as ascertained by the census of 1931 with that of 1922, the figures for the latter having been recast within the framework of administrative areas as constituted at the date of the census 1931.

Table II (b) makes a similar comparison between the settled populations, and Table II (c) between the nomadic populations of the two censal years.

TABLE III.

SUMMARY FIGURES FOR ADMINISTRATIVE AREAS
WITH PERCENTAGE OF VARIATION SINCE 1922.
PALESTINE AND EACH MAIN RELIGION.

This table amplifies Tables I and II (a). It shows the variations between 1922 and 1931 of the areas of administrative divisions and the percentages of variation of the settled population and of the three main religions.

In each case the nomadic population is omitted except in columns 9 and 10 where for purposes of density the nomadic population distributed as shown in Table II (c) is included.

The increase in the general area of Palestine was caused by a transfer of territory across the northern boundary following the rectification of that boundary in 1923.*

TABLE III.

gives similar information for the nomadic population.

- * (i) The boundary is defined in the Anglo-French Convention 1920. Comd. 1195 Misc. No. 4 (1921).
 - (ii) The agreement as to the rectification was published in Comd. 1910 Treaty Series No. 13 (1923) "Agreement between His Majesty's Government and the French Government respecting the Boundary Line between Syria and Palestine from the Mediterranean to El Hammé."

TABLE IV.

TOWNS AND VILLAGES CLASSIFIED BY POPULATION.

In this table as in Table I towns were defined as units under the jurisdiction of a municipal council and included the town of Tel Aviv which is under the jurisdiction of a local council vested with wide municipal powers.

Before towns and villages were grouped into classes, the population enumerated in encampments, boats, and jail companies, was excluded from the total population shown in the volume of the Village Tables. This floating population in respect of each sub-district is shown in the last column of the table.

The nomadic population is omitted from this table.

TABLE V.

TOWNS CLASSIFIED BY POPULATION WITH VARIATION AND PERCENTAGE OF VARIATION SINCE 1922.

This table shows the population of towns at the enumeration of 1931 and at that of 1922 distributed by sex. Columns 6, 10 and 14 show the variations since 1922 and columns 7, 11 and 15 express these variations as percentages of the respective populations of 1922.

For the purpose of the census a "town" includes every municipality and the township of Tel Aviv.

The towns are arranged in the order of magnitude of population and have been grouped in six classes as in Table IV.

TABLE V.
